

A Study Day : Elements of Design

with Ann Hechle at 3 Havory, Larkhall Bath BA1 6RR

The day will be spent first looking at my manuscript book “Figures of Speech: a book of Geometry and Design”- now 72 pages long!
{which includes writings, drawings, mathematics & symbols} and then discussing some ideas that arise from it:
for instance layout, texts areas, tonal qualities of text, proportion;
and different ways to achieve harmony and contrast, balance and dynamics.

We will consider our visual vocabulary which provides the tools we need,
and that it is itself a source of inspiration.

As this book is on paper, and I cannot erase errors,
I have had to develop a way of working that uses a more philosophical approach.
I began to see that this method of designing - relating the parts to the whole - echoes strategies used in the natural world.
This aspects will be explored.

Venue for the Day: 3 Havory. Larkhall, Bath BA1 6RR

Price : £60 per person

Date: Thursday 26th October

Time: 10.00 to begin at 10.30 - 4pm. Times can be adapted to suit group.

Refreshments:

Coffee, tea & biscuits will be provided but please bring your own lunch.

*I can only take 5 people at a time in my house,
so I will group together applicants in groups of 5
in the order that I receive requests.*

Alternatively, those interested might like to form their own group.

For all enquiries please contact Ann Hechle at annhechle@gmail.com